The left staff contains a musical score for a single instrument. It consists of 12 systems, each with a 5-line staff. The music is written in a simplified notation where vertical grey bars represent rhythmic patterns and black dots represent pitch. The melody is primarily composed of quarter and eighth notes, with some rests. A small black square at the top of the first system indicates the starting point of the music.

The right staff contains a musical score for a second instrument. It also consists of 12 systems, each with a 5-line staff. The notation is similar to the left staff, using vertical grey bars for rhythm and black dots for pitch. The melody is primarily composed of quarter and eighth notes, with some rests. A small black square at the top of the first system indicates the starting point of the music.
