The left staff is a musical score on a grid. It consists of 12 systems, each with a five-line staff. Vertical grey bars are placed at regular intervals across all systems. Black dots are scattered across the grid, representing notes. The dots are primarily located in the middle and lower portions of the staves, with some appearing in the upper portions. The overall pattern suggests a rhythmic and melodic structure.

The right staff is a musical score on a grid, similar to the left staff. It consists of 12 systems, each with a five-line staff. Vertical grey bars are placed at regular intervals across all systems.
