245 – This House We Dedicate to Thee

Letra: Henry W. Naisbitt, 1826–1908

Música: Frank W. Asper, 1892–1973. © 1948 IRI

The left staff of musical notation is a grand staff consisting of ten five-line staves. It contains a melodic line with black dots representing notes. The notes are placed on various lines and spaces across the staves, indicating pitch and rhythm. The notation is written in a style consistent with the 'Método Direto Instrumental' system.

The right staff of musical notation is a grand staff consisting of ten five-line staves. It is currently empty, serving as a space for accompaniment or a second melodic line.
