The right page of the musical score consists of ten staves. The notation continues from the left page. The notes are represented by black dots on a grid. The right page features a prominent vertical line of notes in the middle of the page, which appears to be a key signature change or a specific rhythmic pattern. The notation is consistent with the left page.
